CREAMETAL AG NEWSLETTER / AUGUST 2024

Portrait of Andreas Binggeli

Andreas Binggeli joined our team just over four months ago. With extensive experience as a metalworker, laser machinist and in setting up milling machines, he brings a breath of fresh air to our production processes. To make our products even better and more unique for our customers. Andreas sees automation and the use of robots as key future trends and emphasises the importance of teamwork. Read the portrait now and find out more about Andreas' professional career and his visions for the future of CREAMETAL AG.

"CREAMETAL à votre service"

In August, we had the pleasure of delivering a CREA-WHEEL straightening machine and a complete CREA-DRILL to Riess SAS in Colmar, France. Our owner Mario Weber provided the customer with the usual CREA service - from delivery and commissioning to on-site instruction. This example underlines our endeavour to offer top quality and reliable service. France is a growing market for us and we are proud to be part of our customers' success story. We look forward to many more joint projects! At the end of September, we will be at Batimat in Paris, the major trade fair for the construction industry and building trade, where we will be presenting our products.

Deckenmax: Drilling with spring pressure

Drilling overhead into the ceiling is strenuous. Ladders or scaffolding are usually required and the radius of action is very limited. The solution is called Ceilingmax: the best thing since the invention of the hammer drill. With various universal holders and reducing rings, it fits any hammer drill. Hard work becomes very easy - drilling holes for the installation of profiles, balcony railings or beams becomes child's play. Automatic feed with spring pressure. After changing the upper part, the Ceilingmax overhead drill rig is also suitable for universal pressing of components onto the ceiling.
